Bryant to answer your question, no I never talked to the facility. Mike was the in-between while I was working on the IMAAC modeling. Just in case below I copied the contact table from the same original email that Steve sent but I believe that Ms. Jean Marie Cencetti will be the one to go to (scroll down to see Monica's).

Arkema Emergency Contact Name: Wendal Turley
Emergency Contact Title: Plant Manager
Emergency Contact Phone: (281) 328-9443

From an earlier email :

Ms. Jean Marie Cencetti (Director of Env. and Sustainable Development for Arkema; 610-878-6632). This is he person who provided TCEQ with an early morning update.

Yes. Is there an 24 hr number for the facility? Also, do they have instructions to contact you if conditions change tonight?

Got some info from Paul. They are ready if needed. Due to night time they're somewhat limited to their capabilities and it will take about 1.5 hours from Addison. But they can still do thermal and peroxides if necessary. Also, there's still the safety issue with the potential to explosion with a fly over. Our discussion and my advice was to wait until first daylight and coordinate with Brescia to schedule a fly over the facility before covering the Corpus area, which I believe it hasn't been finalized yet (they're on standby for Corpus).

Steve provided the FAA temporary restriction order and the ASPECT crew also has their own channels to deal with FAA in situations like this. Paul also mentioned that if indeed there was an ignition/fire at any time to quickly call him and ASPECT will be ready to roll.

Bryant, since you're up first at the REOC tomorrow, you can discuss and pull the trigger with Paul at Mobile: 202-344-5382 Office: 202-564-2415

I don't believe ASPECT can provide any meaningful info at this point since it appears there's no release yet. It is the threat of explosion or fire, then there'll be something to monitor for.
